ONE TOUGH TRACTOR!

40-hp Ford 3600
The tough Ford 3600 is built for heavy fieldwork, and a lot more. A proven Ford engine — gas or diesel — provides hard-lugging tillage power. The 8.5-gpm hydraulic system handles mounted implements with ease, and gives you accurate response with three kinds of hydraulic control; draft, position, or a blend of both. Here's the versatility and handling ease you need to make short work of a wide variety of farm jobs.
Stop by today and try a tough Ford 3600 for size!

Cancer benefit

Soccer tourney slated

The Lynchburg Unit of the American Cancer Society is sponsoring a double elimination soccer tournament Aug. 21-23. The tournament is open to anyone six years of age or older. There will be five divisions of competition based on age and first and second place trophies will be awarded in each division.

Entries will be accepted on an individual or team basis. Soccer patches will be given to all participants who register by the August 1 deadline.

For more information, contact the American Cancer Society Office in Lynchburg at 845-0973.

Local ladies attend Extension Council

Members of the Virginia Extension Homemakers Council will gather at Virginia Tech for their annual conference Monday through Thursday, July 20-23.

The organization will hold a series of workshops and seminars on the theme "Forward Together" during sessions at the University's Donaldson Brown Center for Continuing Education.

About 250 members are expected to attend the conference which is open to the public, said Jane P. Janey, Virginia Tech Extension Specialist in family resources, who is adviser to the 14,000 member organization. The conference is sponsored by the Virginia Extension Homemakers Council in cooperation with the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service.

Attending from Appomattox County are: Mrs. Alise Drinkard, Mrs. Margaret Lee, Mrs. Geraldine Marshall, Mrs. Grace Miner, and Mrs. Ruby Williamson.

Mrs. Williamson, who serves as a state officer (Citizenship and Community Outreach) will be a program participant.

Highlights of the meeting will include an awards program to honor the top counties in the nine Extension Homemakers' educational programs of work.

In addition, the meeting will feature a talk on "Homemakers Together: Let's Do It Better," by Oscar Williams, associate director of the Center for Volunteer Development at Tech; and a talk by George Litton, who retired as head of the University's department of animal science.

Also on the meeting's schedule are "A Sure Cure of What Ails You," by John J. Beasley, Extension leader, 4-H, "What Every Woman Should Know About Self Protection," by Marcie Turner, regional director of Raft, Inc.; and "Women in Virginia History: Famous and Infamous," by Judith Scott-Epley, associate editor of the Virginia Tech Magazine and Debra Waggoner, of the Virginia Tech Public Affairs Office.

Willey calls Coleman 'untrustworthy'

By JOHN GOOLRICK
Fredericksburg Free-Lance-Star

RICHMOND (AP) — State Sen. Edward E. Willey of Richmond, a Democrat who has often supported Republicans or independents for state-wide office, leaves no doubt he's not even considering backing Marshall Coleman, the GOP gubernatorial nominee.

"If a guy like Coleman gets elected," said the outspoken senator, "we'll have four years of no government. He doesn't have a friend in the General Assembly. I don't even think the Republicans like him."

Willey, 71, the Senate's oldest member in time of service and chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, added, "Coleman is untrustworthy. You can't believe a damn word he says. He'll promise you one thing then turn around and promise your opponent something for him. He's acted like that ever since he's been in public office."

In a recent interview, Willey said he:

•Will give Lt. Gov. Charles Robb, the Democratic candidate for governor, his full support.

•Will back the re-election of independent U.S. Senator Harry Byrd, Jr. next year and advise the Virginia Democratic Party not to nominate anyone to oppose him.

•Thinks Republican U.S. Sen. John Warner is "a fine senator," whom he would support for re-election.

Willey's all-out backing of Robb is significant because he is among a number of conservative Democrats in the General Assembly who will be supporting a Democratic candidate for governor this year for the first time since 1969. Willey appears to be by far the most vocal of that group, however.

A retired pharmacist and drugstore owner who goes to his Capitol office every weekday, Willey is consistentlyrated among the most influential Senate members.

Brusque and easy to rile, he is not liked by all of his colleagues, but he is respected. Few dare to openly criticize him because the Finance Committee decides the fate of money bills important to legislators.

Although Coleman has avoided any public retaliation against Willey's harsh criticism of him, he is known to have little regard for the elderly senator and during his days of service in the Senate was one of few who consistently bucked Willey.

Sen. Edward Willey
Conservative backing Robb

By the authority of Appomattox County Citizens For Robb, Monte W. Mays, Chairman, Ronald C. Spiggle, Secretary-Treasurer.
